2010 HTSUS

The U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) has posted the 2010 Harmonized Tariff Schedule to its website. The updated HTSUS reflects the amended list of GSP countries and extended Israel agricultural TRQs, the amended list of ACG countries, the staged duty reductions under several Free Trade Agreements, and the adjusted NAFTA rules of origin. Units of measure have also been changed for some dairy products to specifically require reporting of milk solids content by kilograms. CSMS #10-000004 (Jan. 7, 2010).

MISCELLANEOUS TRADE BILL

The House and Senate failed to pass a Miscellaneous Trade Bill before adjourning in 2009 and so duty-free or reduced duty treatment for hundreds of products expired on December 31, 2009. A Miscellaneous Trade Bill may be moved in early 2010 to re-authorize the expired provisions and could contain other provisions.

BIS

The Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS) has updated its guidance to Freight Forwarders on their compliance responsibilities, routed export transactions, and mitigating liability risks.

TRANSFER PRICING

Customs recently issued its most comprehensive analysis of related party valuation in several years. In HQ H029658 (Dec. 8, 2009) Customs ruled that transaction value existed in a related party sale between the foreign seller/manufacturer and the U.S. importer. Key factors considered by Customs included a bilateral Advanced Pricing Agreement ("APA") between the IRS and foreign tax authorities, Customs access to the documents filed with the IRS, the filing of a study pertaining to industry pricing practices, and the filing of countless commercial documents with Customs. Customs reliance on these factors in the ruling sets a high standard for reviewing other related party valuation methodologies. The reviewed methodology did not include any compensating adjustments, which could serve to limit the applicability of the ruling to other transfer pricing mechanisms. FIRST SALE REPORT

The U.S. International Trade Commission has issued its report on the use of the "First Sale Rule" in U.S. imports from September 1, 2008 to August 31, 2009. It showed that only 2.4% of entries declared use of the first sale rule, with the most frequent users being importers of high duty products such as in the textile, apparel, and footwear industries. The report indicated that without additional data it was not possible to determine revenue loss or Customs value decrease from the use of the first sale rule. USITC Publ. No. 4121 (Dec. 2009).

ACE AD/CVD ENTRIES

Customs is delaying deployment of the ACE Entry Summary, Accounts, and Revenue (ESAR) III antidumping and countervailing duty (AD/CVD) entry processing and case management capabilities that were scheduled to be deployed on January 17, 2010. The delay is to allow more testing. 74 Fed. Reg. 69129 (Dec. 30, 2009)(notice of deployment); CSMS #10-000015 (Jan. 14, 2010) (notice of delay).

In addition, Credit Suisse agreed to implement an enhanced global regulatory compliance program.

DUTY FREE STORES

Customs has issued a Final Rule on Class 9 Bonded Warehouses/Duty-Free Stores that extends the blanket withdrawal procedure, creating a 20 day window for proprietors to file a Customs entry, to provide written documentation of overages, shortages, and damages, and to pay money owed based on the inventory discrepancies. The Final Rule also permits electronic recordkeeping systems to segregate duty-free merchandise from duty-paid merchandise. The rule goes into effect on January 28, 2010. 74 Fed. Reg. 68681 (Dec. 29, 2009).

Customs has issued a Final Rule making Remote Location Filing (RLF) a permanent Customs program. 74 Fed. Reg. 69015 (December 30, 2009).

Not included in this list are HTSUS Chapter 98 classifications, which have always been invalid for use in AES transmissions.

ECCN GUIDANCE

The Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS) has published an advisory opinion regarding "secondary incorporation" when calculating de minimis. BIS advised that U.S. origin components incorporated into a foreign-made discrete product will not be counted in de minimis calculations when that foreign-made discrete product has been, in turn, incorporated into a subsequent foreign-made item.
